THE DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE

WASHINGTON, D.C. 20505

The Honorable William E. Simon
Secretary of the Treasury
Washington, D. C. 20220

Dear Bill:

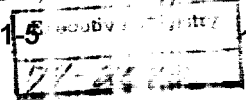

As we have discussed, I agree that we should reactivate the Requirements Advisory Board (RAB) for international economic intelligence. I have discussed this matter with Dr. Kissinger, as Chairman of the National Security Council Intelligence Committee, and he is in agreement. The purpose in reactivating this Board is to ensure that the intelligence collection agencies receive guidance from a senior level rather than, as has sometimes been the case in the past, solely from analysts and other specialized consumers. I see the RAB as a useful and necessary supplement to the informal networks of contact between consumers and producers of intelligence.

Given the particular focus of my Key Intelligence Questions for this year and the fact that the Treasury Department is a member of the United States Intelligence Board, I think it would be appropriate if the Treasury representative to the RAB were to serve as Chairman. I understand that your nominee as the Treasury representative will be the Assistant Secretary for International Affairs, Charles A. Cooper. I also think it would be appropriate if my nominee to the Board, the National Intelligence Officer for Economics, [redacted] were to serve as the Executive Secretary. STAT

If these appointments are agreeable to you, I have Dr. Kissinger's approval to make them as Deputy Chairman of NSCIC. I will then be in touch with the heads of the other Departments and Agencies in foreign economic policy-making to request their nomination of senior-level representatives to the Board.

Sincerely,

W. E. Colby

The Honorable William E. Simon
Secretary of the Treasury
Washington, D.C. 20220

Dear Bill:

You will recall that some months ago we agreed the time had come to reactivate the Requirements Advisory Board (RAB) to provide high-level consumer guidance to the Intelligence Community on international economic intelligence issues.

Dr. Kissinger agrees. He proposes the group be reconstituted as a sub-committee of the National Security Council Intelligence Committee and should include senior representatives of the principal departments and agencies concerned with foreign economic policy making, with your representation as the chairman. To make the title more indicative of its role, it seems appropriate to change the name to the Economic Intelligence Sub-Committee of the NSCIC.

One of the main tasks of this group will be to identify broad requirements relating to information needs that are not adequately covered at present and which seem to justify additional collection effort.

I understand that your nominee for chairman will be the Assistant Secretary for International Affairs, Charles A. Cooper. I think it would be appropriate for my National Intelligence Officer for Economics and Energy [redacted] to serve as my Community representative and as the Executive Secretary.

If these appointments are agreeable to you, I will request Dr. Kissinger's office to announce them. Dr. Cooper

25X1 and [] can then request nomination of senior-level representatives by the heads of the other departments and agencies in foreign economic policy making.

In addition to the Treasury, I propose that -- as was the case in the RAB -- members be provided by State, Commerce, CEA, STR, CIEP and the USIB Economic Intelligence Committee. The NSC Staff has designated Mr. Robert Hornsby as its representative. I suggest that Agriculture, ERDA and the EximBank also be represented.

Sincerely,

/s/ Bill

Dear Bill:

I am very pleased that preliminary arrangements have now been completed to reactivate the Requirements Advisory Board (RAB) under its new name -- The Economic Intelligence Subcommittee of the NSCIC. As you know, I have been impressed with the increasing support which intelligence has provided the foreign economic policymakers over the last two years. I am convinced, however, that with a more systematic approach in this area, we can do a better job.

25X1
25X1 I know that [] will serve us well as Chairman of the new Committee, and I fully agree with your suggestion that [] serve as the Executive Secretary. I understand you had already agreed that Bill Morell would also serve actively on this Committee in the capacity of Vice Chairman.

I hope that we can move out quickly in establishing the Committee and getting on with the business of sharpening up intelligence support in this area, recognizing that once the group is organized, a great deal can be accomplished outside of formal Committee meetings. Your suggestions for membership are quite satisfactory to me.

We look forward to working closely with you in this new endeavor.

Sincerely,

William E. Simon
